CASE WON BY LAFOLLETTE

DECISION OF COURT IN HIS FAVOR

Ticket Nominated by LaFollette Faction of Republican Party in Wisconsin to Be Placed on Regular Ballot.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 5.—LaFollette wins in the supreme court decision in the Wisconsin factional case. Judge Marshall Dunn and Justice Winslow rendered the decision, Chief Justice Cassaday dissenting. After setting forth facts alleged in the complaint and determining the court has jurisdiction in the case, the decision says the time has not arrived in the present case when the secretary of state is required to make certification of nominations. By general rule there is no remedy at law by mandamus and action is properly brought in equity. The legislature intended to provide for settlement out of court of all questions between factions of a party concerning the right to the party name upon the official ballot by the following section of the Wisconsin statutes:

"In case of division in any political party and claim by two or more factions thereof to the same party name, the officer with whom certificates on nomination are required to be filed shall in certifying such nomination and preparing ballots give preference of the name to the convention or caucus thereof held pursuant to the call of the regularly constituted party authorities, and if the committee representing the other faction present no other party name such manner may designate the name in such manner as will best distinguish nominations thereof."

"When two or more conventions or caucuses shall be held and nominations thereof be certified, each claiming to be the regular convention or caucus of the same political party, preference in designation shall be given to nominations of the one certified by the committee which had been officially certified to be authorized to represent the party."

The decision says the present case comes clearly within the second clause of the above section and that the tribunal answering to the call is found to exist in the Republican state central committee elected at the state convention of 1902 and duly certified to by the secretary of state.

The court holds that it is the duty of the secretary of state to certify both sets of nominations to various county clerks, giving these headed by LaFollette for governor preference in respect to use upon the official ticket, the name "Republican ticket."

The court says in conclusion: "What the real right of matter in dispute might be found to be were this court permitted to disregard the decision of the special tribunal of the central committee and investigate and determine the merits of the controversy from that standpoint, it has no right to decide or suggest. Duly constituted authority having spoken within its jurisdiction, it must be conclusively presumed to have heard and rendered judgment here to have spoken rightly."

At the state convention held May 18, last, 1,000 delegates were given seats and of these 108 were contested. The state committee being of LaFollette sympathy, seated but forty-three stalwart delegates, giving LaFollette a majority. The stalwarts charged unfairness, bolted, nominated a separate ticket and went into the supreme court to compel the secretary of state to put the stalwart ticket in the regular Republican column of the official ballot.

BEGINNING OF WINTER

Finds Thousands of People of England on the Verge of Starvation.

London, Oct. 5.—At a meeting of the Manchester city council to day it was announced that owing to hard times and depression in cotton industries between forty and fifty thousand people in the poorer parts of the city were on the verge of starvation. Similar conditions prevail in London and other large cities of the United Kingdom, where the winter is expected to be one of the hardest in many years for the poorer classes.

RELIGIOUS DISORDER IN ENGLAND.

London, Oct. 5.—During a procession in connection with the annual Church of England congress at Liverpool yesterday anti-Ritualists greeted robed bishops and clergy with cries of "Oh, for another Luther," "Down with Popery," "Traitors," etc. A strong police force surrounded the cathedral, authorities fearing serious trouble.

GREEK STEAMER FOUNDERED.

London, Oct. 5.—The Greek steamer Kolmentink, bound from the Black sea for Antwerp, foundered recently near Ushant and seventeen members of the crew, including officers, were drowned.

TRIBUTE TO PAYNE

Proclamation Issued by President Roosevelt—Extends Personal Condolences.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The president to day issued a proclamation announcing the death of Postmaster General Payne and paying a high tribute to the deceased as a citizen and official. He directs all departments be closed between 9 and 1 P. M., the day of the funeral, and that flags on all public buildings throughout the United States be half-masted from now until the funeral has taken place.

President Roosevelt called at the apartments of the late postmaster general to extend his personal condolences. A vast number of telegrams were received to day from all over the country, a large portion of them coming from Wisconsin. A request has been made by friends that consent be given for a public service in Milwaukee. A committee consisting of First Assistant Postmaster General Wynne, W. H. Mitchell, chief clerk of the state department, and Maj. Charles McCaull of the marine corps will meet at the state department to morrow to plan details of the funeral arrangements.

Rev. Mr. Smith, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, where the funeral will be held at 11 o'clock Friday, will conduct the ceremony, while Right Rev. Isaac Nicholson, bishop of Milwaukee, will conduct services in Milwaukee. Second Assistant Postmaster General Shallenberger will represent the postoffice department at the funeral at Milwaukee.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Opening Session of General Triennial Convention at Boston

Boston, Oct. 5.—The archbishop of Canterbury and bishops from many parts of the world attended the opening session of the general triennial convention of the Episcopal church to day. The English primate was the last in the long procession of dignitaries which passed up the broad aisle of Trinity church, where the opening service was held in the presence of an immense congregation. He recited one of the prayers in the office of holy communion and read the gospel. The celebrant was Right Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, of Missouri, presiding bishop; gospel was Right Rev. James Carmichael, bishop coadjutor of Montreal, and preacher Bishop William Doan, of Albany, N. Y. Bishop Doan welcomed the archbishop of Canterbury and devoted a large part of the sermon to divisions in Christendom.

CHICAGO & ALTON CHANGES.

Kansas City, Oct. 5.—E. F. Swimney, a director of the Chicago & Alton railroad, to day said: "There is absolutely nothing in the report that the Alton is to be operated in two year periods by the Union Pacific and Rock Island alternately. Control will be absolutely one way or another. As far as the public is concerned, there will be no apparent change in operation of the road under the new control unless it is that the Rock Island will operate its fast train over the Alton tracks between Kansas City and Chicago."

GIRL CHOKED TO DEATH.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Minnie Harnel, aged 15 years, was choked to death by an unknown assailant in a barn on her father's premises in the outskirts of Chicago this evening. She had been left alone in charge of three small children. She went to the barn. The other children followed ten minutes later and found her dead on the floor. She had been cruelly beaten and abused before strangled.

AMERICAN MUNICIPALITIES.

East St. Louis, Oct. 5.—The League of American Municipalities to day selected Toledo for the next annual convention and elected the following officers: President, W. P. Crotts, Joliet; secretary, Joseph McVicker, Des Moines. Several papers were read.

FORGED NAME OF EX-PRESIDENT.

Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—Charged with forging the name of former President Grover Cleveland to a check for $25, Charles Ellston, a Swede, has been arrested here. The police express belief he was formerly employed in some capacity about the home of Cleveland at Princeton.

WISCONSIN BANK ROBBED.

Janesville, Wis., Oct. 5.—A bank at Monticello was robbed during the night. Loss not known. The robbers escaped in a wagon.

GEORGIA ELECTION.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 5.—The entire Democratic ticket in Georgia was elected to day. Joseph M. Terrell was re-elected governor.

JUDGE PARKER SITS FOR PORTRAIT.

New York, Oct. 5.—Judge Parker to day gave a sitting to Mueller-Utrey, portrait painter. The portrait when finished will be given to Mrs. Parker.

REDUCTION IN SUGAR.

New York, Oct. 5.—All grades refined sugar were reduced 10 cents a hundred to day.

REPUBLICAN CLUBS MEET

LEAGUE IN SESSION AT INDIANAPOLIS

Thirty-five States and Territories Are Represented—Opening Address Delivered by President Moore.

Indianapolis, Oct. 5.—The biennial convention of the National Republican league of the United States opened here to day with thirty-five states and territories represented. According to its president, J. Hampton Moore, the league represents two million members, organized into seven thousand Republican clubs.

Gov. Winfield T. Durbin formally welcomed the delegates to the state. Response was made by S. H. Redding, of Arkansas, national treasurer. An address by President Moore followed. Moore said: "Since the Chicago convention we have waited in vain for the Democrats to show cause why Republicans should change their faith, while the country listened with its ear to the ground for the sage of Exopus to speak, but heard only echoes of Republican achievement. 'I was wrong on the money question in 1896 and you were right,' Judge Parker said. 'I was wrong in 1900; you were right. You are right in 1904 and I am right, but I am more right than you are,' a truly judicial deliverance."

"With peculiar personal alarm at the appalling spectacle of the Democratic axeman hacking at the tree of protection, the venerable sage of West Virginia cried out: 'Woodman, spare that tree,' but in the same breath exclaims: 'My party right or wrong, but right or wrong my party.' He also declares protection is robbery."

"Our Democratic friends endeavor to absorb well-seasoned planks of the inviolable Republican platform. They would come in under any old umbrella. They know the gold standard was right, they were only joking of the Panama canal. Of course, they received incidental benefits from protection. They always intended to regulate trusts. They favored expansion of trade and they were mighty anxious to prosecute postal frauds, and they know how all these things were accomplished. They have a horrible nightmare about President Roosevelt; he is 'so unsafe.'"

Moore then spoke of the purposes of the national league, admonishing all to labor energetically in the next thirty days for Republican supremacy.

GREETINGS FROM ROOSEVELT.

President Moore read the following letter from President Roosevelt:

"Permit me through you to extend my warmest greeting to the convention of the Republican National league. I appreciate to the full the work it is doing. The interested aid of men who compose it means more for the party than almost any other kind of support. I count our party fortunate in having able men to work for it in the spirit that your organization has shown. We hold that our party is worthy of support because it has served the nation with fidelity and efficiency so long, and especially because it is now thus serving it."

SHAW AND KNIGHT.

Leslie M. Shaw of Iowa and George A. Knight of California to night addressed delegates to the National Republican league convention and a large crowd. A big parade accompanied the speakers and the league officers from the hotel to the hall. J. Hampton Moore, president of the national league, introduced Shaw. Shaw was greeted with applause which lasted several minutes, delegates and visitors rising to their feet and waving flags, hats and handkerchiefs. Knight followed Shaw and was also cordially received.

DENIAL BY GOVERNOR BATES.

Boston, Oct. 5.—Gov. John E. Bates to day authorized a denial of the statement published from Worcester that he had decided to appoint Attorney General William H. Moody to succeed Senator Hon. Governor Bates said he had not made up his mind in the matter.

OIL PLANT DESTROYED.

Findlay, Ohio, Oct. 5.—The plant of the National Oil Refining company was destroyed by fire to day, entailing a loss of $200,000. The fire was started by lightning striking a thirty thousand barrel tank, which was two-thirds full. The tank exploded and thousands of barrels of burning oil spread over the plant. A number of persons were severely burned.

STARTED REVOLUTION.

Cape Haytien, Oct. 5.—Advises received by the Associated Press from Monte Cristi, Republic of Santo Domingo, announce Gen. L. S. Rosas with fifty men revolted against the government Sept. 26 in favor of Isidore Jimenez and started for the interior.

RAN INTO BURNING TRUSTLE.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 5.—A passenger train on the Augusta Southern railroad ran into a burning trestle near Mitchell, Ga., to day. One man was killed and eight others injured. A sixty-foot trestle, tender, compartment car and two coaches burned.

PEACE CONGRESS

Resolutions Adopted Calling on Russia and Japan to End Their War

Boston, Oct. 5.—Resolutions intended to bring about, if possible, an end to the Russo-Japan war were adopted to day at the meeting of the International peace congress. By terms of these resolutions the congress will address an appeal to the emperors of Russia and Japan to terminate the struggle and each of the powers signatory to The Hague convention will be formally requested to press on Russia and Japan the importance of putting an end to the war. Resolutions referring to friendly intervention by the powers will be presented to President Roosevelt by a committee. The resolutions were passed after a lengthy discussion, in which many prominent foreign delegates participated.

During the discussion Delegate William R. Cromer, of England, characterized the treaty between England and Japan as a blunder and charged that this treaty doubtless had much to do in bringing on the Japanese war.

WAR NEWS

Absence of Developments From the Front Starts Talk of Disposition of Russian Officials.

In the absence of developments at the front, interest at St. Petersburg centers in the disposition to be made of certain important civil and military officers. Rumor has it that Viceroy Alexieff has been reinstated in royal favor and will, on his return from the far east, become the actual director of Russia's foreign policy. Friends of Kuropatkin are confident that he will be given at least temporary command of the two Manchurian armies. No news later than Sept. 30 has been received from Port Arthur. At the date given the garrison had been inspired by repulses of the Japanese.

WAR REPORTS.

London, Oct. 5.—A news agency to night sent out a dispatch dated Tokyo, Oct. 5, saying: "It is reported that the Russian squadron made a sortie from Port Arthur to day and that a great naval battle occurred." No details are given.

Mukden, Oct. 5.—A regular recruiting service has been formed by the Japanese army, enlisting what is known as the Chinese volunteer militia. The Japanese are assisted in this work by Linsee, a prince of the Chinese Imperial household. The men are paid by the Japanese, but not armed by them with Japanese modern rifles. They use instead old muskets of enormous calibre. The Russians have come in contact with them several times and their bravery is incontestable.

A Russian correspondent of the Associated Press who has just returned from Major General Mischenko's division says there have been constant skirmishes in which the Russians have regularly defeated the Japanese, although engagements never have been very large. The last advance was on Oct. 3, when the Japanese made several tentative movements, but were driven back on every occasion by Russian cavalry. Casualties were small.

Posselt Bay, Manchuria, Oct. 5.—The Japanese minister at Seoul has demanded every town in Corea furnish a contingent of forty to sixty men for an army now being organized, but the emperor of Corea refused to do so. Japanese continue to recruit Koreans under pretence of employing them as coolies. It is reported they recruited six hundred men at Ping Yan, dressed them in uniforms, sent them to Manchuria and placed them in the front line, fastened to posts, until nearly all of them were killed. The Russians found but one man alive.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 5.—Lieutenant General Stoesel says Japanese losses were 10,000 during attacks on Port Arthur from Sept. 19 to 22. He reports no incident occurred from the 23rd to 30th excepting outpost skirmishing.

Stoesel adds that practically nothing remained of the water works and redoubts when surviving Russians evacuated them.

BOARD OF AGRICULTURE.

Springfield, Oct. 5.—The annual election of the members of the state board of agriculture took place to day at the state fair grounds. The new board elected A. D. Barber, of Hamilton, president, J. M. Dickerson, of Lawrenceville, becomes vice president at large.

REMOVED BY MAYOR

New York Official Accused of Certifying to Illegal Pay Rolls

New York, Oct. 5.—Mayor McClellan to day removed the entire civil service commission and Park Commissioner Schmitt. The removal was made on charges preferred by the Civil Service Reform association that officials have been in collusion in certifying to illegal payrolls in the park department. Four of the commissioners are Democrats and two Republicans.

ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

Davenport, Iowa, Oct. 5.—Arnold Penhoun, cashier of the New Liberty, Iowa, Savings bank, which failed last week, was arrested here to day on a warrant sworn out by the bank directors, charging him with embezzlement.

BANKRUPT.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—F. E. Roberts, a produce commission dealer, filed a petition in bankruptcy to day. Liabilities, $268,000; assets, $4,500. The failure is attributed to unsuccessful speculation.

WATSON IN NEW YORK

DINED WITH FRIENDS AT "DOLLAR DINNER"

Five Hundred Members of People's Party Greet Their Leader—Talks of Jeffersonian Democracy.

New York, Oct. 5.—Thomas E. Watson, nominee of the People's party for the presidency, was dined by friends to night at a "dollar dinner" in the Palm garden. More than five hundred members of the People's party, accompanied in many cases, by their wives, were there to greet the candidate. William A. Conkley presided.

Watson was late in arriving. He came alone, clad in a plain dark business suit. He walked through the long line of tables, looking neither to the right nor left, and took a seat at the center of the guests' table. This was the signal for prolonged cheers of welcome.

After dinner Joseph Buchanan responded to a toast, declaring that votes cast for candidates not elected because of principle were not wasted.

Dr. John H. Girder, whose guest Mr. Bryan always is when in New York city, spoke on "Equal Rights to All and Special Privileges to None." He declared that he and he alone was responsible for his presence and for what he said, coming even against the entreaties of some of his best friends. "Some of us minority stockholders in the old Democratic plant," he continued, "refused to be taken over into the party trust. Some of those whose wages were raised have stuck to the old plant."

When Watson rose amid wild cheers to make the final speech, he began:

"Oh, if that pretense up and give me the Democratic papers, and give me the Jeffersonian speakers, and give me that noble army that followed Bryan in 1896; if he would only give me all these I would show the Republican party and Theodore Roosevelt a great militant Democratic party from sea to sea. It would accept his challenge, I might not whip him, but he would know he had a fight, I am a fighter."

"In July I wasn't even a newspaper item, but now they are fighting me with newspaper cartoons and editorials. I long for and love the thunder of guns and if only Parker would get out of my way and let me command the arm that he commands I would give Theodore Roosevelt a battle royal."

"Had the government governed justly the probability is that we never would have had the labor question in this young republic. Both of the great political parties have alternately been in power, both have had the opportunity to correct these abuses, both are responsible and both should be condemned. In this campaign of 1904 Theodore Roosevelt might safely swallow Parker's platform without the slightest fear of an attack of acute indigestion, and Parker might take off his shoes and walk barefooted all over Roosevelt's platform and be in no danger of running a splinter in his feet."

"The party which I have the honor to represent in this campaign is the only one which stands for Jeffersonian principles. We are not bound for Eldorado of any Utopian dreamland. We want to keep our feet upon the earth and work our reforms in which every man who is willing to pay the price of working for it shall have his share of the wealth of this land."

"Jeffersonians! your flag was pulled down at St. Louis, and you are left without leaders. I have picked up your flag from the ground where it lay and I call upon you to rally to it. Refuse and you have done violence to your own sense of right. Refuse and you put party above principle."

Painted by Joseph Chamberlain of Present Condition in England.

London, Oct. 5.—Joseph Chamberlain repays his fiscal campaign at Linton, Bedfordshire, to night. The duke of Bedford presided. Chamberlain dwelt on the agricultural situation and painted a gloomy picture of the present conditions, predicting that there is worse to come. He said agriculture had been crippled and land values shrunk by hundreds of millions. The capital of farmers had fallen $1,000,000,000. There are 1,600,000 fewer laborers in the country now than in 1861 and 12,000,000 people are underfed, while the people of America, Germany and other foreign countries are prosperous and surpassing Great Britain in every line of trade and business. He said that to deny the existing conditions was impossible and to ignore them would be criminal.

Chamberlain said he wanted to make the foreigners pay the toll on shipments to the British market, where they competed with British workmen, and unless Great Britain and her colonies worked together there was nothing in sight but disintegration of the empire.

FAIRBANKS ON RETURN TRIP

SPOKE TO PEOPLE OF NEVADA YESTERDAY

Given Cordial Greeting at Carson and Virginia—Senator Cullom Speaks to Voters at Clinton Hill—Other News.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 5.—Charles W. Fairbanks and Senator Fulton spoke to day in Reno, Carson and Virginia. Reaching Reno this morning from California, they proceeded to the other two places, returning for the night meeting at Reno. Both at Carson and Virginia they were cordially greeted and their remarks were liberally applauded. In all their speeches they urged the return of Nevada to the Republican ranks and dwell on the capacity of that party to maintain prosperity in the country.

In Reno to night the senators addressed all the people who could crowd into the Grand theatre. The meeting was marked by a high degree of enthusiasm and applause was frequent and pronounced. Fairbanks presented the claims of the Republican party to the support of the people because of its record as a business organization. "The Republican party," he said, "is harmonious. There is no conflict of sentiment either as to our means or with respect to our candidate for the presidency. Republican triumph will insure the country that the administration of public affairs will not be embarrassed by warring factions."

"The opposition is composed of discordant elements. It is sharply divided on important issues and its leadership is not supported with entire unanimity. It is essential to have not only a sound president, but a sound, harmonious party back of him."

SENATOR CULLOM.

Bloomington, Oct. 5.—Senator Shelby M. Cullom spoke to a large audience at Clinton this afternoon. His remarks were addressed particularly to the farmer, to whom he emphasized what he termed the unexampled prosperity throughout the country. As means of securing a continuation of this condition he urged them to vote the straight Republican ticket.

PUBLIC RECEPTION

Tendered Parker by Manhattan Club in New York.

New York, Oct. 5.—The first public reception to Alton R. Parker since his nomination for the presidency was tendered him, to night by the Manhattan club. The club house was taxed to its capacity to accommodate the invited guests. Parker accompanied by William Shephard, Parker and H. Cuddy Herick, the Democratic candidate for governor of New York, stood side by side on a platform at the east end of the large dining room, flanked by the reception committee. Henry C. Davis sent a letter of regret, calling Parker "the ideal citizen for president."

In addition to the specially invited guests a great throng accepted the invitation, implying the management of the club when the doors were thrown open to the people that formed almost a mob on the outside. From the time one mounted the first stairway it took an hour to reach the main reception room, where Parker and Herick were stationed. The crowd was kept moving and it was three hours before it diminished. Parker untroubledly shook hands and exchanged greetings with every guest.

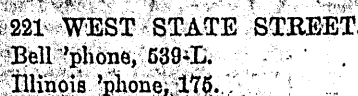

SPOONER AT MILWAUKEE.

Milwaukee, Oct. 5.—Senator John C. Spooner addressed a large audience at the Spaulver theatre to night on national and state issues. He spoke under the auspices of the "stalwart" Republican committee. The senator strongly eulogized President Roosevelt and appealed to every Republican and patriotic Democrat to vote for the Republican national electors of Wisconsin. During his speech he criticized Governor LaFollette for what he termed his efforts to institute one man power in the state.

The senator said he was not a hero worshiper, but as he had opportunity while laboring under commission of the people of Wisconsin to learn Theodore Roosevelt well, the Democrats said he was an unsafe man. He was, to reascend, it has striven to the uttermost to give the people a clean, strong and conservative administration. He sought no quarrel, but he was always prepared for one. He is a safe man and at no time has he failed to travel the right pathway and that promptly. The senator appealed to the Republican electors of the state, however bitter they may be in internecine strife, to vote the Republican electoral ticket. A similar appeal was made in behalf of the Republican candidates for congress.

BRYAN'S CAMPAIGN.

Norfolk, Neb., Oct. 5.—William J.

The hope for the moral prosperity of the people centers of necessity in the common schools. It is important, therefore, that the best elements of society should be kept in close sympathy with these schools. For if a part of the thoughtful portion of the population withdraws its support, the means for substantial progress in the democratic development of the ideal of universal education must needs be unfavorable. It is the civic duty of Americans to unite in the financial and moral support of the common school and to bring every worthy social influence into its service. Here is the ground where the best humanitarian endeavors should unite. Meanwhile, the children have a right to the most efficient training now obtainable. If the common schools of a locality are not wholesome places

DENTISTS WILL ORGANIZE.

The dentists of Morgan and neighboring counties will meet in this city to day for the purpose of organizing a district society. The meeting will be held at the Dunlap house and will be followed by a banquet. Representatives will be here from Cass, Morgan, Scott and Pike counties.

DISCIPLES OF THE HOUSE OF DAVID.

Four representatives of the House of David, from Benton Harbor, Mich., arrived in the city Wednesday and will hold services in this city both afternoon and evening for a few days. They are an odd appearing lot of people, the men wearing long, flowing hair, and they claim to be Israelites who are now living in the end of the Gentile dispensation. Their only colony is now located at Benton Harbor, where they have about 300 members. They teach that the Bible says that there shall be upon earth a class of people who will never die, but live on forever, and there are to be in this body 144,000. They will speak on the square each day.

ORGANIZATION PERFECTED.

The members of the German-American Roosevelt-Deneen league held a meeting in the office of Esquire Arenz Wednesday evening for the purpose of perfecting organization and electing officers. There was a large attendance and a great deal of enthusiasm prevailed. The officers elected are as follows:

President—Matthew Minter.

Vice president—William Knstrup.

Secretary—Edward G. Beck.

Treasurer—A. W. Arenz.

The Trinity branch of the woman's auxiliary of the board of missions will meet at the residence of Mrs. Ida V. King, Friday, Oct. 7, at 3 p. m. Business of importance. A full attendance is requested.

Mrs. F. J. Harlow, Sec. and Treas.

This will be a notable date in millinery circles, when Miss S. M. Smith, successor to Loneragan & Smith will have her display of trimmed goods. All ladies should avail themselves of the opportunity to see the display.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by all leading druggists.

CLASS MEETING.

The sophomore class of the Woman's college, met with Miss Anderson, the class officer, Wednesday afternoon, and elected the following officers:

President—Louise Fackel.

Vice president—Anna Watson.

Secretary and treasurer—Edith Morgan.

Reporter—Clara Hunsinger.

Owing to the addition of another year to the college course, there was no freshman class last year; but in spite of this fact, the sophomore class this year has eighteen members.

JOHN R. DAVIS,
Chairman County Central Com.
W. M. MORRISSEY,
Secretary County Central Com.
FRANK J. HEINTZ,
Chairman Speakers' Com.

It is always well to remember that one calamity howler can make more noise than a hundred people who are perfectly satisfied.

From all over the country comes news of this, that or the other honest
Democrat who is going to support Roosevelt, but somehow or other we do not hear of Republicans who have gone over to Parker.

Put in a nutshell, President Roosevelt's heart to the South American states consisted of the statement that no well-behaved neighbor would have any trouble with Uncle Sam; and it is hard to see how any well-behaved neighbor can feel insulted by that.

How long will it take us to get uniform labor laws in this country if southern mill-owners have their way in the matter? They aver that their profits depend on a working day of twelve or fourteen hours.

Inability to boss Dave Hill is a poor recommendation for the job of presiding over the destinies of the country.

The people who are feeling so skittish about President Roosevelt's tendency to do things, will not grumble one little bit when he does things they are in a hurry to have done.

It is all right for the Democratic campaign managers to "view with alarm" the president's character and tactics. If we were in their place
we should not be easy in our minds, either.

Judge Parker may be a diplomatic man, but if he is going to reconcile the opinions of all the people who are trying to agree with him he will need something more powerful than the lockjaw style of diplomacy.

TARIFF AND IMPORTERS.

The importer has come to see and to acknowledge that he is far better off under Republican administration under the operation of a tariff law which gives employment to our people which gives them almost unlimited purchasing power than when duties are low and wages are low.
Consequently we find that a large number of our importers along the Atlantic seaboard are rallying to the banner of Roosevelt and Fairbanks and acknowledging openly that they propose to vote for the Republican candidates on the 8th of next November.

EXPENDITURES ALL RIGHT.

The campaign on the Democratic side has been reduced to two contentions: the so-called aggressiveness and impulsiveness of Theodore Roosevelt and the so-called extravagant expenditures of the Republican party. These expenditures are credited to Mr.
Roosevelt by the ignorant Democratic press, while of course the president has nothing whatever to do with the appropriations which necessitate the consequent expenditures for the maintenance of the government. It transpires that those expenditures,

all things considered, are in no way an increase over the expenditures of previous administrations; as, for instance, the expenditure of $50,000,000 for the Panama canal is in no way an ordinary expenditure; it is simply the taking of so much money from our surplus and putting it into this great undertaking, and there is no Democrat with courage enough, if he has the inclination, to say that that amount should not have been appropriated. We are now expending $20-000,000 a year for free rural delivery service, and there is no Democrat with courage enough, even if he has the inclination, to say that we should appropriate a dollar less than $20-180,000, which we are to expend this year for that splendid service, and which will no doubt be increased from year to year should the Republicans continue in power.

CHEAPER GOODS AND FREE TRADE.

The advantages of cheaper goods
under free trade cannot be measured by money. The question we are called on to consider is: Can we obtain the foreign goods as easily when the wages of our people have been reduced and employment made uncertain as we can American goods when wages are high and the people well employed? The experience of forty years under a protective tariff must be conclusive evidence to the few who have a distinct remembrance of the condition of the country previous to 1861 that the working people have fared far better since that period than before. For more than twenty-five years previous to 1861 the country had had but four years under a protective tariff. That was under the elder Harrison administration, and was enacted in 1842, only two years before James K. Polk was elected president. If there was much hope by the friends of protection in 1842 that American manufacturing would continue to be encouraged by protection the election of a Democratic president in 1844 dampened that hope.

DENNEEN AT CHAMPAIGN.

A rousing reception from the University of Illinois student body characterized the visit of Charles S. Den-neen to Champaign county Tuesday.
Prominent in the crowd of 2,500 that greeted the candidate when he arrived from Monticello at 2:40 o'clock in the afternoon were 500 students under the leadership of Ralph Horr, president of the University Republican club.

The state's attorney was greeted with college cheers, coupled with his name. Mr. Denneen had never inspected the state university and as he was desirous of seeing one of the most prominent state institutions, he was taken on a tour of inspection by William B. McKinley, congressional nominee for that district, in the latter's automobile.

The Champaign Coliseum was thronged at 3 o'clock when Mr. Den-neen entered. Many women were present in the audience. The candidate's progress to the hall was at the head of a big parade. W. B. Mc-Kinley acted as chairman of the meeting, introducing the gubernatorial candidate, who spoke for an hour and a half, making an excellent impression. He devoted considerable time to imperialism and then turned to state issues. He championed the direct primaries and the Chicago charter, both propositions being liberally cheered. His civil service declaration was another extremely popular portion of his speech.

The candidate left Champaign on a special train for Tuscola, where he spoke last night.

New York Sun: Truth bids us say that there is a little more spunk in Judge Parker's letter of acceptance than in any preceding document of his composition since the campaign began. A little more, but not much.
It is easier to read than its predecessors, because Mr. Parker himself or some useful friend edited away
the overabundance of qualifying phrases and modifying words with which the excellent gentleman has been accustomed in his political manifestos to ballast both sides so im-partially that when you get to the end of one of his complicated sentences you do not know whether twinededum or twinededee has the plurality. We bespeak the candid consideration of all citizens for what is the most creditable production, as literature, that has yet emanated from Esopus. And we call particular attention to its most interesting feature, namely, the reference to the much debated pension order, making the age of 62 presumptive evidence of disability to earn a living by manual labor. * * * Is it selfevident for the maintenance inviolate of the constitutional boundaries, or merely an ordinary attempt to outbid for the so-called veteran vote? How puzzling are the anfractuosités of the human mind when it is up for elective office!

New York Press: If President
Roosevelt's formal letter of acceptance was a masterly example of downright honesty in stating principles, direct force in meeting issues and unhesitating candor in making definite and unescapable pledges, Mr.
Parker, in his formal letter of acceptance, surpasses all his previous performances at dodging, twisting, squirreling and backing and filling on the great questions which are before the American people. With one solitary exception there is nothing in all the words which Mr. Parker writes to the Democratic party which commits him flatly to any proposition which concerns the affairs of this nation. That exception relates to the gold standard, and it is worth while to observe that Mr. Parker has been flogged by the ridicule and contempt not only of Republicans but of Democrats to going as far as he goes in his letter when he says at last: "I wish here, however, again to refer to my views there expressed as to the gold standard, and to declare again

my unqualified belief in said standard." Mr. Parker never before has expressed his "unqualified belief" in the gold standard, though he uses the expression "again," intimating that he is only repeating a former avowed opinion.

How a Soldier Won a Wife.

There is a romantic love story in connection with General Sir Michael Biddulph, the "gentleman usher of the black rod," who died recently in London. Sir Michael was one of the few soldiers—outside of fiction—who captured their wives at the point of the bayonet.
It came about thus: During the Crimean war, throughout which Sir Michael served with much honor, being present at the battles both of the Alma and Balaklava, the late
"black rod" was told off to take charge of Captain Stannati, the Russian commandant of Balaklava fort.
This officer had two daughters,
with one of whom young Captain Biddulph there and then fell in love. At the conclusion of the war the two were married, the czar's consent having been obtained.

Rubbing It In.

Ex-Secretary Elihu Root was talking about the humanity of judges.
"They are humane men," he said.
"I could tell you many moving stories of the pain that they have suffered in the infliction of severe sentences. It is not altogether pleasant to be a judge."
"That is why I cannot credit a story that was told me the other day about a judge in the west. A criminal on trial before this man had been found guilty. He was told to rise, and the judge said to him:
"Have you ever been sentenced to imprisonment before?"
"No, your honor," said the criminal, and he burst into tears.
"Well," said the judge, "don't cry. You're going to be now."—
New York Tribune.

The Mesquite in Hawaii.

It is said that a single mesquite seed was taken from Angora to the Hawaiian Islands in 1873 and planted there. The seed took root and grew, spreading as only the mesquite bush can, and now there are said to be 50,000 acres of it in the islands.
But it has adapted itself to its new surroundings and is quite different from the parent plant.

MATRIMONIAL

STARK-CAFFY.

Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Caffy on South Prairie street, took place the wedding of their youngest daughter, Miss Mabel E. Caffy, to Robert Watt Stark, of Urbana.

The arrangements for the wedding were made most simple in every particular and only the members of the two families were present to witness the solemn ceremony. The house decorations were in keeping with the other appointments and the color scheme of green and white in the parlor and red in the dining room was made most effective by a simple and tasty arrangement of cut flowers and potted plants.

Just at the appointed hour the bride and groom entered the parlor, where the impressive ceremony uniting them for life was said by Rev. T. H. Marsh, pastor of the First Baptist church. Following the ceremony and congratulations, the guests repaired to the dining room, where an elaborate wedding breakfast was served.

The bride has always been a resident of this city, where she enjoys an extensive acquaintance, and is a young lady whose pleasant and sociable manner has won for her innumerable friends, by whom she is held in highest esteem. She was a student at the Jacksonville Female academy, from which institution she graduated in the class of 1894. Following the completion of her work here, she was selected as a teacher in the public schools, which position she held during six years, teaching in the Fourth ward, and in this work she was highly successful. She gave up her public school work to attend the Champaign university, where she graduated in the department of library science in June of this year.

The groom is an instructor in the department of chemistry at the State university, where he has charge of special analysis work. He is a young man of excellent standing in the faculty of the school and the scope of his work has shown him to be possessed of unusual ability in his line of work. Mr. and Mrs. Stark left via the Wabash on the morning train for Urbana, where they will be at home after Oct. 26, at 910 West Oregon street.

Mrs. Nancy Stark, of Urbana, mother of the groom, was here to attend the wedding.

CULP-TARZWELL.

HANNIBAL WON

Country Club Golf Team Were Defeated by Missourians Wednesday.

The teams of the Jacksonville Country club met defeat at the hands of the Hannibal golfers Wednesday, but the sting of defeat was greatly lessened by the cordial reception accorded the visitors.

Carriages conveyed the guests to the grounds, where a luncheon was served before the contests took place, and at 5:30 a dinner was served at the Burlington hotel.

The following is the score, according to the Nassau system:

Osborne	1	Herring	2
Seacroft	2	Baker	1
Leaford	1	Newper	2
Dismore	2	Settles	2
Lattrell	1	Parling	2
Dwan	2	Johnson	2
Smith, Sr.	0	Chilton	3
Smith, Jr.	0	Brown	3

The ladies' scores were as follows:

Miss E. Robertson	0	Mrs. Dunham	0
Miss Carter	0	Mrs. Mahan	0
Miss Mills	0	Mrs. Chilton	1
Mrs. G. Seacroft	0	Mrs. Parling	1
Miss Lear	0	Miss Shryock	3

The ladies' team did exceedingly well considering that three of the contestants had never before participated in a match game away from home.

Suicide at Mayville—Heirs Contest Will of Aged Peoria Citizen—Other Notes.

Griggsville—Henry Dunham, living at Mayville, a small village four miles west of this city, committed suicide by shooting himself with a shotgun. He laid upon the bed and placed the muzzle of the gun against his left side, the load passing under his heart and through his body, coming out under the right shoulder blade. Mr. Dunham was a sober industrious citizen, was a blacksmith by trade, and conducted a shop at Mayville. The specific cause for the rash act is not known. Mr. Dunham's son committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver some five years ago, and since his death his father has at times brooded over his son's death, and this is supposed to be the cause of self-destruction.

Peoria—When the will of Washington Corrington, aged 92 years at the time of his death, was probated it was found that he had left his entire estate of $325,000 to trustees for the purpose of establishing the Corrington university. Heirs immediately entered a protest, and the contest over the will is now being heard in the local courts. During his life he consulted Dr. W. H. Harper and Prof. Albion Small, of the University of Chicago, and Dr. Small to day testified. The heirs claim their father's mind was deranged when he made the will bequeathing everything to the university. The property includes valuable city and township acreage.

Alton—The Alton city officials are planning to sell a relic of Alton's early ambitions to become the state capital, a piece of property known as "statehouse" square, on Staunton street, which has been abandoned as a school and is an expense to the city. The property was bought as a site for the capital building, which it was proposed to move from Vandalia in 1833. At an election held in that year Alton received more votes than any other city in the state. The result was never officially declared, however, and the legislature refused to make an appropriation for the building, and subsequently the property passed into other hands. Until seven years ago a school was maintained there.

Quincy—Ira Upchurch and John Hedrick, indicted by the Brown county grand jury at its recent session in Mt. Sterling, for complicity in the death of Oliver Surratt, which occurred last January from arsenical poisoning, were brought here Wednesday morning to the Adams county jail by Sheriff Grover and an assistant. Both men are under $7,000 bond.

Springfield—Governor Yates has granted a reprieve for sixty days to John Johnson, who is under sentence to hang in Chicago, Oct. 14, for the murder of Dennis Fitzgerald. The reprieve is granted in order that the case may be taken to the supreme court on a writ of supersedeas.

Whitehall—On Tuesday, Oct. 4, 1904, Coleman Howard was 90 years old, but is as active as most men of 75. He was born in Lincoln county, North Carolina, Oct. 4, 1814, and came to Illinois in 1833, locating on Wolf Run creek, east of Whitehall. He has lived here and in Scott county all of his life and is now making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Alonzo Allen, just north of Whitehall.

AT ARMORY HALL

Enthusiastic Meeting of Republican Voters of the Twelfth District.

The Republicans of the Twelfth district held a profitable meeting at Armory hall Wednesday evening. The deepest interest was manifested and the issues of the day were discussed in a more or less informal manner. W. M. Morrissey presided.

J. H. Hackett was the first speaker. He reviewed the glorious history of the Republican party, the party that "does things," and contrasted conditions under Democratic rule, with those under Republican administrations. He discussed at length the "Big Stick" issue, and enumerated Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, Grant, McKinley and Roosevelt as those who have pre-eminently wielded the "Big Stick" to good purpose.

A. C. Rice then uttered a stirring appeal to all good Republicans to get out the party vote. He said that although it was a question of how great the Republican majority would be, still every member of the party should do his duty.

W. M. Morrissey was called upon, and urged the united support of the party for their county candidates, who are richly deserving of such support.

James Dickens made an earnest address, showing how the last Democratic administration had paralyzed industries right here in this city, and how the conditions had improved under Republican rule.

After some informal discussion, the meeting stood adjourned.

Refused His Own Medicine.
A noted surgeon of this city was recently attacked by appendicitis. This surgeon performed last year 500 operations and lost but two, but when he was told that he had to be operated upon he objected, although the operators were also noted surgeons and intimate friends.

"Not on your life," said the patient. Urging was of no avail, and finally remedies unaccompanied by the knife were used.

The surgeon was sick some weeks, but he finally recovered, and only recently has been chronicled as having performed an operation for the disease with which he, too, was afflicted and for which he would not undergo a siege at fellow professionals' hands.—Baltimore Sun.

Bees and Beer.
We have always looked on the bee as a monstrously overrated insect, says the London Globe. At the back of our mind there has always lurked a suspicion that his ostentatious goodness was simply for purposes of advertisement. This view is supported by the behavior of a swarm at Enfield, which for two solid days sat drinking stout by the barrel at the Nag's Head. On the morning of the third day they staggered away. Perhaps somebody will revise that poem of Dr. Watts:

How doth the little busy bee
Pursue his daily task!
He flies about till he finds stout
And drinks it by the cask.

Countess Tolstoi.
Countess Tolstoi does not agree with her husband in all of his theories, but she agrees with the world which worships him and is very proud of him and very devoted, although her devotion has been severely taxed in several ways. She has copied yards of unreadable manuscript while babies of various sizes were pulling at her skirts. She has translated books into three or four languages and has transformed all sorts of garments to meet the needs of the changing sixteen, her children.

First Safety Razor.
Safety razors were manufactured in England sixty years ago. One style, known as the "guarded razor," had a loose frame or guard of brass added to the blade, its purpose being to prevent the edge from penetrating to any serious depth when the instrument was used by infirm or nervous persons. Today we have a dozen or more different kinds of safeties, and even boys are using them for the youthful encouragement of whiskers.

SEEING THE FAIR IN DETAIL

Sixty Centuries Have Elapsed Since Some of the Egyptian Exhibits Were Made—The Chapel of a Prince's Tomb—The Dilemma of Egyptians—An Early Advertisement—Glass Vases That Were Made Before Glassblowing Was Invented—An American Baby Basket 500 to 1,500 Years Old—A Curious Sash and Yards of Beads—Prehistoric Dentistry—Where an Indian Village Fire Department Was Baffled.
(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE BY MARK BENNETT.)

When Prince Rukapu of the fifth dynasty of Egyptian rulers died about 4,000 years ago, the royal family levied another assessment and built him a magnificent tomb, with chapel attached. The best fresco artist in town, doing work at live and let live prices, was employed to decorate the walls in first class mineral paints—no benzine mixtures and to make a fitting place in which the restless spirit of Rukapu might disport itself. After the lapse of sixty centuries the Anglo-Saxon, made inquisitive by much learning, secured permission from the Egyptian government, which no longer revered its ancient kings, to dig in the drifting sands of the dry Sahara at Sakkarah for archaeological specimens. In time they came upon the chapel and tomb of Rukapu, the bright paint still on its walls and the stone still retaining its shape, with only slight evidence of disintegration. This chapel of Rukapu has been set up in the Anthropology building at the world's fair, where you and I may look at it to our hearts' content and think of the scenes within those selfsame walls 4,000 years before the time the Saviour walked upon the earth.

What we read in books we see here at the world's fair in material form. We read Egyptian history and learn about the many gods of the Egyptians. Here are those gods as real as they were to the Egyptians. We read about their sacred things, and those sacred things are here, thousands of years old, and we become intensely interested if we ask a few questions of the curator in charge, Arthur B. Coover. In a case by themselves are ranged the little images of the pious Egyptians sought. Here are Horus, the youth; Ptah, the cat; Anubis, the sacred bull; Ptah, the old man; Bes, the dwarf; Osiris, the god of the dead; Hathor, the goddess of love; Imhotep, the god of learning, with scroll upon his knees; Thoth, the ibis-headed scribe of the gods; the sacred hawk; the scarabaeus, or sacred beetle; Amon, the bearded god of royalty. The deities are of feline, usually blue, and many of them of sizes so small that they might have sold in the racket stores of Carthage or Thebes at 10 cents the dozen.

In the case with the images is a coil of red rope, the earliest form of rope known. Beside it is a wooden intaglio stamp supposed to have been used by an ancient Egyptian baker in marking his bread—one of the earliest evidences of the spirit of advertising. I am sure a loaf of bread with the baker's name on it in raised letters is preferable to one bearing a gummed label, for the reason that the label always raises in the mind a question as to the method of moistening the label before applying.

The glassblower, with his crystal ships and other strange craft, who leaves his trail through the country marked by drinkless glasses of wine or family mantels, did not belong to ancient Egypt. The Egyptian might have raised the wind, but he did not know how to use it. Here are a dozen glass vases in various patterns of blues and yellows, made as the Egyptian knew how to make them. Instead of blowing the plastic glass he laid it over a core of clay, fused the glass together until the vase was formed and then dug out the clay interior. They were made 1,000 to 1,500 years before Christ, and you may see them if you take the time.

Baby's basket has been a household article since mankind set up housekeeping, but the most curious baby basket in the world is in a glass case in the Anthropology building. An Indian mother made it, and hundreds of years ago it was sealed up in the room of a cliff dwelling high in the side of the mysterious or Moki canyon, a side canyon of the Colorado in San Juan county, Utah. The explorer who came upon this rare piece of prehistoric handicraft was E. B. Wallace. Its preservation for the many centuries since cliff dwelling was the fashion is due to the inaccessible location of the cave or house and the extreme dryness of the atmosphere. The basket was for the baby himself and not for his wardrobe and accessories, as may be seen by the places for his legs. It is so deep, too, that he couldn't easily climb out during his basket years. The basket is made of red, white and black material that looks like the bright, fine cane of modern commerce, but since they used cane 2,500 years before Christ in Egypt cane cannot be considered so very modern. Fine skill is shown in the workmanship, a graceful pattern being worked out in the three colors. It is almost perfect to this day, except that it has the color of great age. It was found June 30, 1900.

In the same case with the curious baby basket are a white wool sash nearly thirty feet long and five inches wide, two strings of shell beads a yard long and a piece of decorated pottery.

The sash and beads were in the vase wrapped in a material that crumbled to dust when exposed to the air. This find was made by James Black only last year in a high cliff cave dwelling in Laguna canyon, sixty miles from Bluff City, Utah, near the Arizona line. The several articles are from 500 to 1,500 years old and in a state of perfect preservation.

A bit of prehistoric dentistry comes from an Ohio mound and may be seen in the exhibit of the Ohio Archaeological society in the Anthropology building. Some aboriginal, name unknown, having lost three front teeth in a scrap—presumably had them replaced with deer teeth. The secret was out when the Ohio archaeologists robbed the grave.

The fire department in an Indian village was not as efficient as it might have been; otherwise we might not have had some of the rare exhibits to be found in the Ohio section in the Hall of Anthropology. The Indian storehouse of 500 to 1,000 years ago was a hole in the ground lined with bark or straw, over which was a cover. The corn and beans and hickory nuts were here carefully stored away against the cold season. Sometimes the wind would blow a brand of fire from the family hearthstone in front of the tepid along the ground and set fire to a bit of the exposed straw or bark of the storehouse. In the exhibit from the Gartner mound we have the evidences of such a calamity. Here are some corn parched not less than 500 years ago, some burnt beans and half burnt hickory nuts. Here are some corn cobs that related total combustion in a storehouse fire in a village of unknown name. All these things are prehistoric.

FIVE YEARS IN ICE.

Body of Long Missing Man Found Perfectly Preserved.

Ole Sjostron, a young Norwegian, disappeared from Barnabroff station five years ago. Nobody knew what became of him, and finally persons ceased to wonder. Sjostron's body was found a few weeks ago completely embedded in ice on Arctic island, in Bering sea, and so thoroughly preserved that not even the slightest indication of change had set in, says the New York Herald.

The barkentine City of Papeete reached San Francisco from Barnabroff recently and brought the news of this remarkable discovery.

"Five years in the ice," said Knute Peterson, the first mate, "had not made a bit of difference in his appearance. When they found him he looked as though asleep. They suppose he laid down on the glacier, fell asleep and froze to death, and then the ice formed over him."

AN OREGON SNAKE STORY.

The Remarkable Case of Luther King, Human Serpent.

Luther King, an inmate of the Soldiers' home at Roseburg, Ore., has just finished his annual "stunt" of turning into a human snake, according to a veracious correspondent of the Baltimore Herald.

King was bitten by a rattlesnake Aug. 7, 1873. Each year since then the form of a snake has appeared under the skin of his leg, beginning at the foot and working to the knee, where he was bitten. Then it disappears. Spots like those of a rattlesnake grow each August upon his skin. These finally break, exuding poison. His leg is numb and helpless. From Aug. 1 to 10 he is blind, as are rattlers, and eats nothing. He is unable to remain in the Soldiers' home during these periods.

Proud Father of Twenty-five.

"Good luck to you, from Theodore Roosevelt," is the autograph of the chief executive on a photograph which the proud father of twenty-five children received recently, says the New York World. He is S. P. Swartwood, a railroad of Mountain Top, near Wilkesbarre, Pa.

A few days ago, having read some of the race suicide utterances, he sent to President Roosevelt a list of his children and their birthdays.

"I am the father of twenty-five children, and I have eleven grandchildren. There are five sons able to vote. Sixteen were married in 1874, when he was eighteen and his wife fourteen. Until the last seven years, they have had a baby almost every year. There were two sets of twins in the twenty-five children."

Latest Campaign Song.

Bring the old arithmetic, we'll do another sum.
Setting down the figures to the rolling of the drum.
Counting as we used to when we made the fractions hum.
While we were getting the answer.
Hurrah, hurrah! We sound the jubilee!
14+9 must = 23—
So we sang the chorus that appalled the enemies.
While we were getting the answer.
How we solved equations when the blue wood would charge the brown!
Double spotted logarithms mowed the too-men down.
With a page of problems every bayonet would frown.
While we were getting the answer.
Hurrah, hurrah! x+y=2!
And x remains a minus quantity—
So we sent the chorus down to Washington, D. C.
While we were getting the answer.
So we carved a pathway to the gay called Thoroughfare,
Shouting our defiance with the cube root and the square.
Dashing up with decimals, determined death to dare.
While we were getting the answer.
18+6; 19+43;
2x+y is 3-16 of z!
How we opened up with differential calculus.
While we were getting the answer!
We lead in Chicago Tribuna.

Veteran Russian Soldier.
Lieutenant General Linevitch, who commands the Russian army at Vladivostok, until the advent of General Kuropatkin was in command of the land forces of the czar in Manchuria.

LIEUTENANT GENERAL LINEVITCH.

under Viceroy Alexeoff. He is an old campaigner and has distinguished himself in nearly all of Russia's operations in the far east during recent years.

General Linevitch well knows the fighting qualities of the Japanese soldiers, having fought with them during the Boxer uprising of 1900. As senior officer he commanded the allied troops when they left Tientsin for Peking. Under him, besides the Americans, British, French and Russians, were 12,000 Japs, commanded by General Yamaguchi and Major General Fukushima.

When the present war broke out General Linevitch was directing the movements of the three Russian army corps which at that time occupied Manchuria and was also general of Amur.

ABOUT THAT COAT

You wear a coat. Why? To keep the cold out? No; to keep the warmth in. What of the body that has no warmth—the thin, poor body that lacks the healthy flesh and fat it needs? For such we say that Scott's Emulsion provides the right kind of a coat. Why? Because Scott's Emulsion builds firm, solid flesh and supplies just enough fat to fill nature's requirements—no more. That means bodily warmth.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.
